Columbarium: Niche Cover Plate Transportation

We are looking to find 5 volunteers to help us transport Niche Cover Plates between the parish and Frederick, MD for engraving the names and dates of our deceased who are inurned in the Columbarium. Volunteers must be willing to use their own vehicles for this service. The plates weigh about 12.5 lbs each so a bit of lifting is required. If you would like to join us in ministering to community members this way during their time of grief, please contact Larry Halvey Goodwin at the Parish Office. Thank you!

Dear Parishioners,

All too often, I am afraid, our young families feel uncomfortable because they think that the rest of us are uncomfortable with the feverish activity of their children. Some of you come into the worship space and join us while others choose to remain in the day chapel or narthex. Please know you are indeed welcome to sit where ever you are most comfortable. What is important is that you are here with us and you know that you are welcome. Our children might have something to say during the Mass and during the homily. I concede that what they have to say might be more significant at times than what I am trying to say.

While traveling, a parishioner attended Mass and came across the following. I am happy to share it with you.

*To parents of young children:
May we suggest RELAX!*

God put the wiggle in your children. Don't feel you have to suppress it in God's house. All are welcome!

Sit toward the front where it is easier for your little ones to see and hear what is going on at the altar. They tire of seeing the backs of others!

Quietly explain the parts of the Mass and actions of the priest, altar servers, lectors, choir and others. Help them find the hymns and prayers in the hymnal and booklets. Sing the hymns, participate in the liturgy and pray! Children learn about worship and liturgical behavior by copying you.

If you have to leave Mass with your child, feel free to do so, but please come back.

As Jesus said, "Let the children come to me..." Remember that the way we welcome children in the church directly affects the way they respond to the church, to God, and to one another. Let them know that they are at home in his house of worship.

*To those without young children:
The presence of children is a gift to the church and a reminder that our parish is growing. Please welcome our children and give a smile of encouragement to their parents.*

(More resources are available at TheMassBox.com.)

For our children who are old enough to read we have prepared a worship aid that is available in the narthex. This will help your son or daughter follow and learn the parts of the Mass. Please ask if you cannot find this worship aid which is on the table near the Book of the Gospel.

Social Concerns Weekend

February 2 & 3, 2019

Our donations were down a bit this month, but the donations to Souper Bowl were great so it all helps those who need it most! We received $35 for feminine hygiene products, $166 for cash cards for those who prepare meals to feed the homeless, and we sold 13 bags of Haitian and Peace on Earth decaf coffee.

Although we had warm weather this week it is still winter so donations of new socks and gently used gloves, hats, scarves and coats are much appreciated. You can leave them in the entrance to the Church under the St. Agnes mosaic or drop them by the parish center.

Our next Social Concerns Weekend is March 2 & 3 but donations are welcome at any time.

Feast of St. Josephine Margaret Bakhita

Josephine Bakhita (1869-February 8, 1947) was a Sudanese-born former slave who became a Religious Sister in Italy, living and working there for 45 years. She was canonized on Oct. 1 2000. She is the patroness of human trafficking victims. Read about her extraordinary life at: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Josephine_Bakhita.

Ugly Sleeping Bag Ministry

It's still very cold outside and at this time we are in need of donated king and queen size comforters, blankets, and old men's ties in order to assemble warm sleeping bags. Items should be clean and in fair condition. We also accept used sleeping bags for adults and children. It's okay if the zipper is broken. Please drop off all donations at the Parish Center. Our ministry sews all year round and this past year we made 46 sleeping bags, and had 23 used sleeping bags donated. This gives us a total of 69 sleeping bags distributed to two agencies who serve the homeless. They are JCCM in Jefferson County and Immanuel's House in Berkeley County. We want to thank all parishioners of St Agnes Catholic Church, Shepherdstown Presbyterian Church and the Bavarian Inn for their many years of support of our ministry.

A DAY IN THE LIFE: A Friday at the Food Pantry at Jefferson County Community Ministries

There's a sign on the wall in the Food Pantry at Community Ministries. In bold, colored capital letters it says, "I Can Change the World!" That change happens one person at a time.

Hope (not her real name) is a student at Shepherd College, about to go home to Mineral County for the weekend. She has come in to the Food Pantry to get some food to take home with her, because her parents, both prison guards at the federal prison there, have advised her that she will have nothing to eat while she is there. Donna Joy, a teacher in Jefferson County, has advised her to come to the Food Pantry to get some food to take with her. "I had to do a "GoFundMe" page to get enough money for my parents to come here to pick me up, and keep on going to work next week," she said. "They haven't been paid at all this month, and last month was Christmas. There's just no money right now."

"Maybe they should do what that guy [Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross] says, and just get a loan to buy food," says another client waiting for his turn to get food, more than a little sarcastically. Hope smiles faintly, and then turns to embrace a tall, attractive woman who has just come in. "This is my mother," she says proudly. "I'm going to go home and paint bottles with her this weekend to help earn extra money." She explains that a reporter is working on stories about Jefferson County Community Ministries, and makes the introductions. The mother also would prefer that her name not be used, but she is willing to talk about her situation."

"One thing I hope you understand is that this not 'normal' for us. Usually we are the ones trying to help out, through our church," says Mom. "Our pastor is also a guard at the prison. My husband and I have been working there 18 years, and we have never been in a fix like this before. We haven't been paid since Dec. 22 [the interview was taking place Jan. 25] and we are considered essential employees, so we can't just stay home. All the guards have been showing up, but it is a very tense situation for all of us. This is work with felons, not an office job. I have a co-worker whose prison income is the whole income for his family of six—his wife stays home to home-school the four kids. He says he doesn't know how he is going to pay to get to work next week."

One of the pantry volunteers comes out with a grocery cart filled to the top with food. "Do you need food for your pets, too?" she asks. When the mother nods, pet food and kitty litter are added to the rack beneath the cart. "We are going to share this with our pastor," the mother says. "His daughter is visiting this weekend, and he was saying he was going to walk to Dollar General to buy some food, because he has to save the gas in the car to get to the prison." Before they leave, the mother and daughter profusely thank the volunteers, and even the other clients waiting for food who have given them good wishes. They also hug everyone before they leave.

The Food Pantry volunteers have noticed the impact of the government shutdown on the larger community. "There are more new faces than we usually have," says volunteer Barb Green. "They don't want to say why they are here, but you can tell. We get at least a couple each day. They are not regulars." Karen, another volunteer, adds, "I work Thursdays and Fridays. I'd say we average six to ten people in a morning [the Food Pantry is open from 9 a.m. until noon] but recently our numbers have gone up."

Mindy is a regular. She would rather I don't use her real name. Her clear voice, good grammar, and careful explanations of her situation indicate someone surprised to find herself getting food at Jefferson County Community Ministries, yet she has been struggling—and receiving food here—for nearly a year. She has gone from long-term, stable employment to seeking public and church assistance. "I have made some mistakes," she said. "I would prefer you don't say what they are. However, I can tell you that the people here at the Food Pantry don't make you feel guilty. They just help you to get the food you need. I have never met such wonderful, caring people."

Currently, Mindy is homeless, and has been using the Cold Weather Homeless Shelter that Jefferson County Community Ministries sponsors. "However, I had flu, and I was really sick. I was given a motel voucher for two nights, and I was able to get some rest, take my medicine regularly, and just relax a bit. It helped a lot. I am trying to get back on my feet, and JCCM has really helped."

Donna Joy, the teacher who encouraged Hope to come to Jefferson County Community Ministries, has seen the effect that the organization has on people in need. She is an experienced volunteer, and also does recovery coaching for victims of addiction. "There are so many ways this organization helps people in need," she says. "I knew to tell Hope to come here because I have seen the impact these volunteers have on the lives of the people they serve."

Barb Green has been working in the Food Pantry for nine years, and works two days a week, "...plus many hours of unofficial time," she says. She is impressed with the fact that some of the volunteers are also people who receive services from JCCM, and thinks it helps them to eventually become more effective employees. "The work is a way of becoming acclimated to the world of work, of learning responsibility, of recognizing that one needs to become accountable for one's time and actions." She loves her co-workers and says, "They are the kindest people in the world."

St. Valentine's Day Cookie Project

Can you bake a couple dozen cookies (or more!) as a gratitude gift to the doctors, social workers, and others that serve Hospice patients throughout the year? Please drop off your homemade cookies (just cookies, no other sweet treats) at the parish center on Saturday, February 9 or Sunday, February 10 by 2pm. The two best packaging methods are 1) to put them in gallon size ziplock bags or 2) place the cookies in boxes that can be thrown away or broken down and recycled by Hospice staff as the cookies will be re-packaged for delivery. Please contact Judy Lilga to let her know to be expecting your cookie delivery or with any questions: 301-432-2276 or jslilga@wildblue.net.
